Women of the Way
Urgent Needs in Uganda: A Rescue is Just the Beginning

We Are Tamar

A survivor-led movement rooted in Christ and committed to endurance, restoration, and hope for those impacted by human trafficking. Our mission is to walk alongside survivors with dignity, creating lasting pathways for healing and reintegration.

As part of our very first quarterly project, we are honored to partner with Women of the Way Uganda, a ministry faithfully serving women through discipleship, community, and long-term restoration. Their work mirrors the heart of Tamar—empowering women to endure and flourish through faith.

And because every gift matters, 100% of all proceeds from this project will go directly to these girls, ensuring that your support creates immediate and lasting impact.

The Story

On August 18th, twenty girls were rescued from exploitation in Uganda. Half were just twelve years old, the others no older than seventeen. None could read or write. None knew their birthday.

When they first arrived at the safe home, they were unsure and afraid. But within days, joy began to break through. Clothes. Shoes. Their very own bed. What lit up their faces most were the stuffed animals. Even the oldest clung to them, carrying them everywhere, as if reclaiming the childhood they had lost.

That night, the house echoed with singing, laughter, and hope. It was a blessed beginning – but their journey of healing has only just begun.

THE CHALLENGE

Even after the joy of rescue, danger is not far away. The girls are still housed frighteningly close to where they were taken, and every day carries the risk that traffickers could find them again.

Without a vehicle of our own, staff are forced to use crowded public taxis, putting both themselves and the girls in harm's way. Medical needs are constant – from treating malaria to urgent surgery for injured children. And the safe house requires greater security to protect both caregivers and girls from those who would harm them.

IMMEDIATE NEEDS

To continue this vital work, we urgently need support for:

Educational Materials to begin literacy classes

Vocational Supplies – sewing machines, seeds, cosmetology tools (hair, beauty, hygiene training)

Funding for Staff – teachers, vocational trainers, mentors, and caregivers

Every girl deserves more than survival – she deserves safety, dignity, and the chance to flourish. Rescue was the first step. With your prayers and support, we can walk with them through the long road of restoration. 100% of all donations will go to the Women of the Way.

Give hope today. Because their story is just beginning. Tamar is dedicated to being the hands that rebuild the woman left behind.
